WANAMAKER WAS THE MAN

Who Gave Orders that Blaine Must Not Be Nominated.

It Was Done at Harrison's Request-Virginia Democrats-McMillan and Bynum Talk-What Elkins has to say About the Secretaryship.

Some Inside History.

Special to the Gazette. PHILADELPHIA, PA., Sept. 7 .-- A Republican who attended the recent state convention of his party, says no correct statement of what caused the smothering of the proposed resolution nominating Blaine has yet seen made public. According to this politician, who has a personal knowledge of what took place, it was an almost peremptory order from Postmaster-General Wanamaker that changed the programme. The delegates from the city of Philadelphia, he says, were the ones who controlled the consays, were the ones who controlled the convention and the most influential of them were office-holders appointed on the indorsement of the postmaster-general.
Senator Quay had, without consulting Wanamaker, given orders for the Blaine nominating plank, and went personally to Harrisburg to attend to its construction, and which be consulted with his eventy. about which he consulted with his enemy. Chris Magee, and the two chieftains then Chris Magee, and the two chieftains then and there smoked the pipe of peace. When the Philadelphia delegates went to the railroad station to take the train for Harrisburg, they kept step to a Blaine tune, and declared they would nominate him then and there. When they arrived at the capital the federal officials received Wanamaker's orders, and the Blaine pian was upset. It is understood that Wanamaker acted at the special request of President Harrison, who feared if the Pennsylvania convention should nominate Blaine that it would be necessary for the secretary of state to show his hand, and that the president is not ready to have him do just yet.

his hand, and that the pressuent is not ready to have him do just yet.

WHAT ELEINS SAID.

A well-known lawyer of Washington, who recently conducted for his clients an important case before the state and treasury departments in which Stephen B. Ellips was also employed chiefly owing to his kins was also employed, chiefly owing to his close acquaintance with Blaine, to-day made the following statement to a GAZTITE reporter: "This talk about Elkins being appointed secretary of war is nonsense. I talked with him on the subject a few days ago and he told me he had no idea that he was being thought of as a candidate for the place; that if it was offered him he could not accept it under any condition of things that exists or might arise hereafter."

Representative Bynum will also be of the party, as well as Governor Black, Representative McAdoo and perhaps Senator Faulkner. McMillan is very sanguine of Democratic success in 1892, and as he has covered a great many points in his campaign during the summer, he is well qualified to give an opinion. The tariff, he thinks, is the main issue, and, having whipped on that national issue, he points to the fact that the Democrats have also a dismalar and when Ellison's figures were received, making a 7 250 000 American crop sufficient. the fact that the Democrats have also a dis-tinct advantage in the states of Pennsyl-vania, Iowa and New York, for example, on Bynum will start next week for the Pacific coast, en take the stump in Iowa and later Ohio in response to a personal request from Governor Campbell. Bynum thinks the Governor Campbell. Bynum thinks the Democrats will elect Governor Campbell and possibly a Democratic legislature. He is also certain that Senator Sherman will not succeed himself as senator.

Virginia Democrats.

Special to the Gazette. RICHMOND, VA., Sept. 7 .- The Democratic state committee will meet here in a few days to decide upon what policy shall be pursued toward the Farmers' Alliance in the legislative campaign. This question is a difficult and nice one to determine. The Democratic leaders concede that indications are that the Alliance will develop a great deal of strength in this fight-how much they are not prepared to say. But it seems very probable that unless some definite arangements can be made with them by the Democrats, the Alliance will have a decided majority of the legislature elected in No-

They have already nominated caudidates for the house of delegates in many of the counties, and these candidates they ask the Democrats to indorse. Before doing this local organizations are waiting for the state committee to commit itself on that point. The question that presents itself is: If the Democrats shall indorse all these candi-dates whether the latter will pledge themselves, in event of their election, to go into a Democratic legislative caucus. Possibly a Democratic legislative caucus. Possibly they would make no such pledges in advance of being informed as to just how that party proposed to act on the railway commission and other pet measures of the order.

Some of the Democratic leaders favor the party indorsing the Alliance candidate on the condition named. Others anticipating the objection which they may raise to such a course, think it might be the part of wis-dom to indorse the farmers' candidates without such conditions. One of the most interesting features of this campaign is the Daniel's successor.

□ Nearly all of the Alliance leaders say they favor Maj. Daniel's re-election, and it is certain that if he will agree to the terms of their platform there will be no obstacle in the way of that gentleman serving another term in the senate. The fear seems to be, though, that these conditions may be too exacting, and if they are it is not thought the young Virginia senator could accede to The Alliance leaders have, however, time and again declared that Daniel would have no opposition from their side. Members of the order who might be supposed to have aspirations to the senatorship have declared repeatedly that they would not be in the field. Still they have never yet been tempted with the office. Democratic state committee, when it meets here, will consider all these complications

Denison and Her Sunday Law.

Special to the Gazette. DENISON, GRAYSON COUNTY, TEX., Sept. 7.—At a recent meeting of the council an ordinance was passed granting the saloons the privilege of opening for business Sundays from 6 to 9 o'clock a. m., and at 4 p. m. for the balance of the day. This action of the council met with great disapproval on the part of many of the citizens, and Sunday a mass-meeting was held which was attended by more than one thousand leading citizens, at which the action of the council was severely denounced, and resolutions drawn up to that effect. Late this afernoon Mayor Tone vetoed the ordinance, which was generally opposed. Another mass meeting was held to-night and the action on the part of the mayor and two aldermen, who fought its passage, was indorsed. It is alleged the council will endeavor to pass it over the mayor's veto, and it is thought that several petitions which will be pre-sented bearing over 2000 signatures will

GOOD SHOT, BUT TOO LATE.

A Monster Bald Eagle Soars Away with a Child-Dropping It, the Child is Killed-The Eagle Shot.

SAULT ST MARIE. MICH., Sept. 6 .- John Cowdegie, a Chippewa Indian, living on the shore of Echo lake, started out yesterday to guide a party that was moving ever into Canada. His daughter was on the outside of the hut near the door. When the party had proceeded a half mile or so they saw an enormous bald carrie circling near the hut. Their sportsmen instinct prompted them to turn back and get a shot at the bird. As they turned to retrace their steps the eagle made a sudden swoop to the earth. The Indian quickened his pace and reached the cabin in advance of the white men. When they arrived at the lane they saw a dead eagle of unusual size, and lying upon the ground near it the Indian babe torn and bleeding, also dying. The scream and rush of the great bird upon the child brought the Indian mother to the scene. Her babe was Indian mother to the scene. Her base was already several feet in the air, held by the taions of the eagle. The child was evidently too heavy for the bird, and was dropped to the carth. The fall caused its death. The eagle made another plunge for its victim, but was fought off by the mother, who are maded in delviour it away. As the who succeeded in driving it away. Paris, Lamar Courty, Tex., Sept. 7.—
The details of a horrible accident which occurred last Friday have just been learned here. A young man named Britton, who has been living on a farm belonging to Mr. Griffin Morris, about five noiles northwest, had occasion on the day named to go out to a saw min on Sanders creek about twelve miles from the city, which is owned by Mrs. Deinkwater. After fluishing the business which carried him there Britton walked into the mill and dually began talking to the sawyer, who was run-Brilton walked into the fall and thinky oc-can talking to the sawyer, who was rim-ning a large circular saw, and while doing so a piece of timber on the carriage re-quired handling and Britton started to as-sist is moving it. From some cause he was thrown on the carriage with his head to-ward the saw. The machines was running ward the saw. The machinery was running at high speed, and before the horror-stricken spectators could do anything the nelpless man was driven against the saw, which struck him just at the base of the neck and cut its way lengthwise through
